

How can we get all Minnesotans to champion teachers, regardless of their individual experience with the profession?

"Teacher should invest in high quality professional development so that they can practice and get stronger."

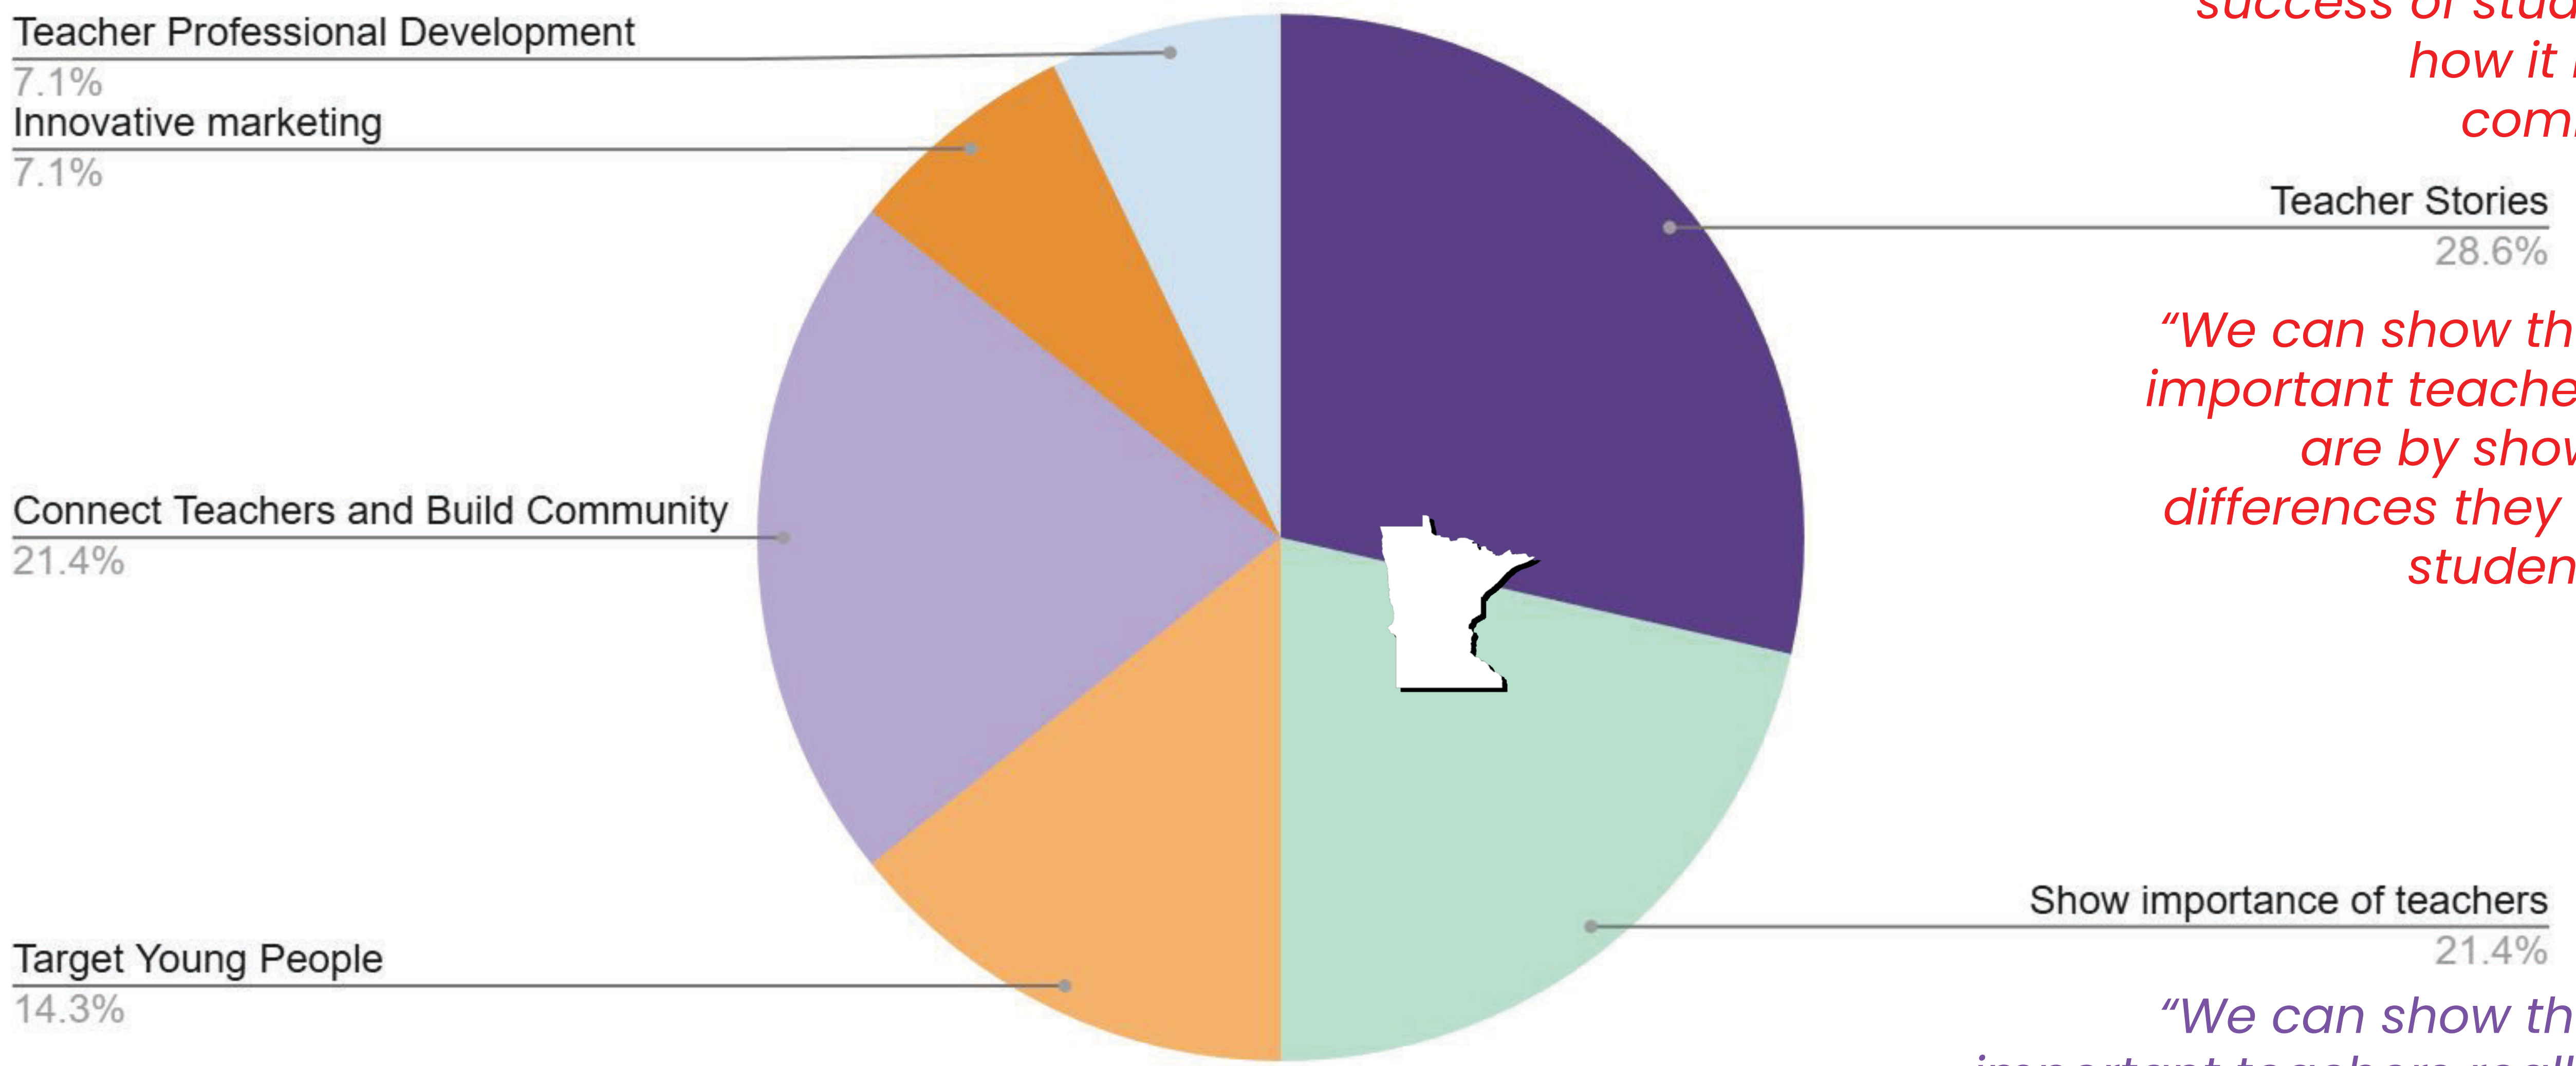

"Maybe, present the idea in a way that doesn't seem like a commercial?"

"Teach, spread out and teach them about what the profession is about and why they do it. The more people learn about it and what it can do and how impacting it is people will join."

Types of Strategies Listed

The following represents a grouping of similar responses and its percentage of total responses.

"We need to share the success of student and how it help the community."

"We can show them how important teachers really are by showing the differences they make in students lives."

"We can show them how important teachers really are by showing the differences they make in students lives."

"I think that targeting young people is a must and to provide more engaging programs that can draw people into the teaching profession."

